

Cuphea llavea — Bat Face Cuphea

Hardiness Zones:

USDA Zone 9 (20 ° F) to

USDA Zone 11 (40 ° F).

Height:

Grows 1-2' tall and should be spaced every 12".

Exposure:

Plant in Full Sun to Partial Sun.

Bloom Time:

Blooms Spring to Fall

Water Requirements:

Water 2-3 times per week until established. Requires excellent drainage.

★ Features: ★

Cuphea llavea is a bushy to mounding perennial subshrub that is native to Mexico. It is a great attractor of hummingbirds, as well as heat and drought tolerant. Bat Face Cuphea produces masses of 1" purple with red tubular flowers, these resemble the face of a Bat, hence the common name.